THURSDAY MORNING, JANUARY 12, 186[illegible]

Changing Sentiment.

When the war [illegible] we were [illegible] with high sounding [illegible] the democratic [illegible] only to the [illegible] idea of chivalry [illegible] and thrust upon the Southern people with an assurance that the Confederacy would be founded upon an [illegible] which [illegible] had eliminated [illegible] Southern state [illegible] who were wise enough [illegible] from its pages and [illegible] put into active operation by the light of the nineteenth century. All human systems of government were weak and illusory without slavery [illegible] and all political science was nonsense that had not read history with the ability to deduce these facts from its pages.

They with [illegible] might have [illegible] had the masses, who [illegible] powerless [illegible] and on whose united effort the success of their [illegible] revolution so much depended, [illegible] of the work they had [illegible] on the strength of present [illegible] some hope of accomplishing a fulfillment of their boasted theory of government. Let us view history in the light that has been cast upon it since they found upon [illegible] the theory that Democracy could only truly flourish upon the basis of slavery, and judge from the facts of present and passing history how [illegible] conclusions thus arrived at [illegible] how hopeless was the revolution thus attempted. During the first thirty months of the war there is no doubt that the South [illegible] in its prosecution [illegible] Missouri was debatable ground, where hostile armies met with varying successes. Maryland was [illegible] Union cause, with Federal armies between it and [illegible] Kentucky was overrun with rebel armies and Tennessee was apparently swept out of the Union by the resistless force of revolution. There was [illegible] of rebel armies in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and the Mississippi river was blockaded at Vicksburg, Port Hudson [illegible] and in many other places we need not name.

There certainly has been a change in the status of affairs, and we [illegible] look for rebel armies making raids into Kentucky, or Missouri, while the State of Tennessee is [illegible] clean of the presence of the rebels in arms. [illegible] the armies they were so proud of [illegible] incapable of inflicting any important damage upon us. There is no hope that they can ever [illegible] the ground they have lost [illegible] comes from Richmond [illegible] of the project to arm the slaves and use them against the Federal cause, and feebly [illegible] to abolish African slavery and form an alliance with the two great powers of Europe, to have their independence guaranteed by them. The South has become weakened, not more by the loss of so many of its bravest upon its battle fields, than by the desertions (as Davis says) of [illegible] of its soldiers from the ranks. [illegible] is not in a cause that can [illegible] them of life without sending them honor. Life is [illegible] than slavery, and [illegible] the ranks they very properly leave the betrayers of the State and leading conspirators to breast as they may the whirlwind of wrath that cannot but overwhelm them.

It is almost [illegible] to see the Confederacy that so boastingly announced itself of late as the champion of slavery come to so low a pass as to entertain the thought of [illegible] their primary idea of Government at the beck of foreign powers, to see the conspirators who [illegible] so much contempt upon the Federal Government when it commenced arming blacks now offering to send them remaining slaves to fill up the ranks that white men have deserted. Truly a change has come over the spirit of Southern pride and chivalry. Those of her proud people who are not suffering at home are destitute abroad and [illegible] of British charity. And the tone of their oratory has become tuned to mournful ejaculations of mingled hope and despair, instead of the proud vauntings of former years.

A [illegible] — We have received — too late for [illegible] to-day — a proclamation calling for the raising of a regiment of cavalry from this State [illegible] made by Major [illegible] Maxwell. The present organization of the First Oregon Cavalry is to be maintained, the companies now existing are to be filled up and the number increased to twelve in all. The proclamation [illegible] particulars relative to the number required [illegible] of raising the same, will [illegible]

He was for [illegible] and Washington Territory, and has been in ill health for some time [illegible] His funeral was [illegible] attended at Vancouver yesterday.

The [illegible] benefit of the [illegible] by the London [illegible] to have been a magnificent affair [illegible] called together [illegible] thousands of the [illegible] will probably be [illegible] relieve the [illegible] and relieve their pressing [illegible]

Peace Commissioners sent to Washington.

It is said that the rebel Congress [illegible] secret session a resolution to appoint peace commissioners and they have been selected [illegible] Orr [illegible] North Carolina [illegible] Alexander H. Stephens are the commissioners. It is also said that Grant has telegraphed that Stephens is invited [illegible] pass through his lines to visit Washington.

It is reported that ex-Governor Orr and ex-Governor Rives are now on their way to Washington on a peace mission.

The [illegible] Washington special learns that the rebel peace commissioners consist of [illegible] President Stephens and Judge White of Georgia, Messrs. [illegible] and Orr of South Carolina [illegible] of North Carolina [illegible] of Virginia, and Smith and Singleton of Mississippi.

This [illegible] also says it is [illegible] there is no hope of passing the Constitutional amendment abolishing slavery.

Rebel Account of Burbridge's Raid.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—[illegible] rebel papers contain an interesting detailed narrative of the late [illegible] of Gens. Stoneman, Burbridge and Gillem in East Tennessee and Southwestern Virginia, which was [illegible] damaging to the rebels in salt and lead works and a vast amount of other property. Though an effort is made to represent the extent of the injury as much less than it really was, the writer cannot avoid acknowledging that it was very great. He derives [illegible] from the fact that [illegible] the Yankees [illegible] all the harm in that region they are capable of, some rest for the rebel troops it is thought may be [illegible]

The Richmond Whig's special account [illegible] Burbridge's raid says that it is impossible for Breckinridge to defend his lines with his present [illegible] and that he [illegible] It says that when Gen. Gillem commenced preparations for the movement from Knoxville and Burbridge appeared at [illegible] Station Breckinridge thought he designed evacuating East Tennessee and wished to cover the movement [illegible] into Kentucky. [illegible] coming through the lines [illegible] and it was fully believed by both Vaughan and Breckinridge. The movement of our [illegible] completely deceived the rebels until it was too late for them to [illegible] mistake.

A correspondent details all the movements of Vaughan and Breckinridge until the raid was ended. He says the whole country was taken by surprise. When he [illegible] captured the telegraph operator and forced him to send calls for [illegible] on the [illegible] line. He telegraphed to Breckinridge and obtained all information he [illegible] His advance on Abingdon and Glade Springs was a complete surprise. The damage done to the railroad was serious, and it will require some time to repair it. All the bridges excepting those at [illegible] and Central ville and the Federals demolished the machinery and buildings at the Salt Works and [illegible] The largest portion of the negroes who were there [illegible] turned and taken off, also the horses, mules and wagons.

Butler's Removal.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—The Herald's army of the James correspondent says: All [illegible] except Gen. Butler himself appear greatly [illegible] at his removal. If the removal was caused by the Wilmington failure it was asked why it was not [illegible] The answer to this was that Gen. Ord, who temporarily succeeds [illegible] was absent, and the authorities only awaited his return. Gen. Butler received the order at half past eleven o'clock on Sunday [illegible] before three in the afternoon [illegible] farewell preparations [illegible] over the army [illegible] successor and taken his departure for the North.

MEETING OF THE COMMON COUNCIL.—The regular weekly meeting of the Common Council was held at the Council Chamber at seven o'clock last evening.

Mayor [illegible] occupied the Chair. [illegible]

The [illegible] was [illegible] by the Clerk and [illegible]

[illegible] Jefferson to Market streets [illegible] having never taken any [illegible] of that [illegible] further [illegible] Mr. C[illegible] [illegible] their report, [illegible] and [illegible] such [illegible] Report [illegible] adopted.

All claims against the city were [illegible] on the table.

The petition of [illegible] Brooks [illegible] to be relieved from taxation, was taken from the table and referred to the committee [illegible]

A communication from the City [illegible] in relation to suits pending against the city [illegible] was taken from the table, and [illegible] placed on file.

The committee on Judiciary [illegible] ordinances levying taxes [illegible] personal, within the city limits [illegible] for ½ of one per cent. payable in United States gold (and silver) coin. [illegible] municipal tax for the present fiscal year. The second is a special tax for [illegible] the present outstanding indebtedness. The third is a special tax for the purchase of a fire [illegible] machine. During the evening the rules were suspended and ordinances passed.

The following ordinances were passed:

An ordinance fixing the bond [illegible] in gold, and compensation, $1,500 per annum of the City Treasurer.

An ordinance to impose and regulate licenses in the city of Portland.

An ordinance providing at what time the taxes shall be paid to the City Treasurer.

An ordinance defining the duties of the City Auditor and Clerk and providing a salary of $1 800 annually, payable monthly.

On motion Council adjourned.

KLEPTOMANIA.—It is not unusual to find in every community a certain class of persons who become petty thieves, seemingly by a mania [illegible] "thrusting on." The propensity to pilfer when the prize is not so valuable as to induce the owner thereof to bestir himself actively, in order to recover his property and bring the offender to justice, is sometimes very strong, but parties who are afflicted with the mania [illegible], will always do well to remember that our laws do not [illegible] an excuse for larceny, on the ground that a culprit has been the victim of his own irrepressible disposition to steal. We have numerous instances to record of stealing the clothes from lines in the city, appropriating turkeys, chickens, and an innumerable variety of little things. But the object of this article is to assure those persons who are in the habit of visiting many of the doors of the city and removing the MORNING OREGONIAN before the owners can get it, that to continue this meanest of all kinds of stealing they may sometime be made aware of the fact that magistrates do not judge these frailties with the utmost kindness, and that though the propensity to thieving may be exceeding great but little allowance is made for it. If there is a man who knows how to read and is desirous of possessing information and yet really unable to pay for a newspaper we pity him. He deserves a better condition and will soon reach it—at least he can soon buy a paper. Such thefts as we are complaining of are however usually perpetrated by street loafers and worthless vagabonds who usually procure their physical and mental aliment by the same disgraceful means.

A LEGAL TENDER DIFFICULTY.—The fur dealer whose stock was lately auctioned off by Mr. A. B. Richardson had ideas, not original, in relation to preferring gold to greenbacks in course of trade, and learning that a certain gentleman in town was in the habit of using them in payment for value received, very genteely suggested that he did not take greenbacks for the articles on sale, thinking that some offense might have been taken, the elderly fur-dealer called on the person alluded to yesterday, and undertook to explain to him that he had no personal acquaintance to cause his remarks, meant no offence, and merely desired to avoid trouble in receiving payment for his goods, by being perfectly understood. But he seems not to have had an opportunity to explain himself, as the party aggrieved summarily and forcibly ejected him from the premises. The occurrence caused considerable excitement on the street and quite a crowd gathered in consequence. The majority of whom seemed to sympathize with the man of furs. The old stranger seemed to intend no affront, and his years at least should have insured him more respectful treatment.

A CONTUMACIOUS HEN.—A gentleman of this city somewhat given to hen culture, and the production of fowls and eggs for the use of his own table, gives us his "experiments" in breaking the willful disposition of an inflexible hen that had taken a persistency to "set" in spite of his efforts daily for a week, to "break up" her [illegible] Cold water "duckings," close imprisonment, etc., were of no avail whatever, [illegible] a number of china nest eggs the gallinaceous fowl covered them no doubt presuming herself [illegible] about hatching her brood. Orders were given not to molest her and after a lapse of four weeks and two days she incontinently [illegible] the [illegible] weaker if not wiser hen. The [illegible] a severe one for her as the stern treatment had very nearly reduced her to a skeleton. [illegible] to the above, and in order to save persecution of innocent and profitable fowls, the writer has found by experiment, that a hen may easily be cured [illegible] of a propensity for nesting by being confined for twenty-four hours in a barrel or cask in which perches are arranged parallel across the top, or in such manner as to compel a perching position—the cover of the top being barely sufficient to prevent egress.

TRINITY CHURCH FESTIVAL.—The members and congregation of Trinity (Episcopal) Church in this city, are preparing for a fine festival to be given at Turn Verein Hall on Wednesday evening next. The object of the entertainment is praiseworthy and recommends itself at once to the generosity of the public [illegible] being for the procurement of a library for the Sunday School. The [illegible] include vocal and instrumental music, [illegible] tableaux vivants, etc., and we are informed will be one of the finest series ever produced or offered on the coast. These living pictures and [illegible] performances [illegible] plan of life on the eastern [illegible] is considered [illegible] mark of the progressive [illegible] introduction so soon among [illegible] "distant" and isolated region [illegible] Oregon.

WILLAMETTE THEATRE.—The performance at this place of amusement last evening was well attended. A fine bill is offered for to-night. To-morrow evening Manager [illegible] will take a benefit, which [illegible] the Swiss Bell Ringers are expected to make their appearance.

POSTPONEMENT.—The Special Sale of Furniture of the Bank Exchange [illegible] advertised by Mr. Richardson to be sold to-day has been postponed.

A NOBLE LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT.—Mrs. Bixby, a poor widow of Boston, was the recipient of the following letter from President Lincoln. [illegible] who was severely wounded in a recent battle, is [illegible] Hospital.

EXECUTIVE MANSION, WASHINGTON,
November [illegible] 1864.

[illegible] I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the [illegible] that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Yours, very sincerely and respectfully,
A. LINCOLN.

Sheridan's Ride.

Up from the South at break of day,
Bringing to Winchester fresh dismay,
The affrighted air with a shudder bore,
Like a herald in haste to the chieftain's door,
The terrible grumble and rumble and roar,
Telling the battle was on once more,
And Sheridan twenty miles away.

And wilder still those billows of war
Thundered along the horizon's bar;
And louder yet into Winchester rolled
The roar of that red sea uncontrolled,
Making the blood of the listener cold,
As he thought of the stake in that fiery fray,
And Sheridan twenty miles away.

But there is a road from Winchester town,
A good, broad highway leading down;
And there, through the flush of the morning light,
A steed as black as the steeds of night,
Was seen to pass as with eagle flight—
As if he knew the terrible need,
He stretched away with his utmost speed;
Hill rose and fell—but his heart was gay,
With Sheridan fifteen miles away.

Still sprung from those swift hoofs, thundering south,
The dust, like the smoke from the cannon's mouth,
Or the trail of a comet sweeping faster and faster,
Foreboding to traitors the doom of disaster:
The heart of the steed and the heart of the master
Were beating like prisoners assaulting their walls,
Impatient to be where the battle-field calls;
Every nerve of the charger was strained to full play,
With Sheridan only ten miles away.

Under his spurning feet, the road
Like an arrowy Alpine river flowed,
And the landscape sped away behind
Like an ocean flying before the wind;
And the steed, like a bark fed with furnace ire,
Swept on, with his wild eyes filled with fire.
But lo! he is nearing his heart's desire—
He is snuffing the smoke of the roaring fray,
With Sheridan only five miles away.

The first that the General saw were the groups
Of stragglers, and then the retreating troops;—
What was done—what to do—a glance told him both,
Then striking his spurs with a terrible oath,
He dashed down the line 'mid a storm of huzzas,
And the wave of retreat checked its course there because
The sight of the master compelled it to pause.
With foam and with dust the black charger was gray;
By the flash of his eye, and his red nostrils play,
He seemed to the whole great army to say:
"I have brought you Sheridan all the way
From Winchester down to save the day!"

Hurrah, hurrah for Sheridan!
Hurrah, hurrah for horse and man!
And when their statues are placed on high
Under the dome of the Union sky,
The American soldier's Temple of Fame,
There with the glorious General's name
Be it said in letters both bold and bright:
"Here is the steed that saved the day
By carrying Sheridan into the fight,
From Winchester—twenty miles away!"

—T. Buchanan Read.

Gen. Washington a Rejected Suitor.—A writer says of the lady who won Washington's young heart, and whose father rejected the tall young soldier, because he had not a carriage for her to ride about in: "I shall go back a number of years in her life and speak of the event which has made her name one of curious interest." Before she became Mrs. Edward Ambler she was called Mary Cary. Her father was William Cary, Esq., of "Cely's," in the county of Elizabeth City, descended from the noble family of Hudsons in England. His relative, Col. Archibald Cary, of Ampthill, in Chesterfield, was, at his death, the heir apparent to the earldom. The worthy old gentleman seems, from all we know of him, to have been as proud as the Carys or the Somersets, and to have thought his family the noblest in the land. He lived in great state, with chariot and horses, plate and velvet and embroidery—a worthy of the old school, fully satisfied with the "order of things," and enjoying serenely the good gifts of Providence. His beautiful daughter was a great heiress, with many suitors—the accident which befel one of them has made her remembered in many books. He was a young man of very high character, a relative of George William Fairfax, Esq., who lived at the Potomac; and here he met with Miss Cary, who came to visit Mrs. Fairfax, her elderly sister. The young man at once proceeded to fall in love, which he did with an ardor characteristic of his nature. When Miss Cary went back to Celey's on James river, he followed her, like a courageous gallant, and laid open siege to the fair fortress. In the good old times, however, something more was necessary than the consent of the young lady; so the youth duly asked a private interview with the awful lord of the manor, who listened to him silently throughout.

"When the lover had finished, Mr. Cary rose, made a bow, and said if this was Mr. Washington's errand at Celey's, his visit had better terminate; his daughter had been accustomed to ride in her own chariot. And with this allusion to the poor condition of the younger son, the interview terminated. Young Washington bowed and went away, and in due time married Martha Dandridge Custis, who 'resembled Miss Cary,' says my authority, 'as much as one twin sister resembles another.'"

But the old tradition does not end here. Many years had passed away—Mary Cary was Mrs. Ambler, and her discarded suitor was the man who had just received the sword of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, whom the whole civilized world had hailed as the greatest among the great—"the foremost man," not only of America, but of all the world. He passed through the metropolis of Williamburg at the head of his victorious troops, and the people were almost crazy with joy and adoration. The vast multitude nearly prevented his horse from proceeding—the calm statue on horseback passed on serenely. All at once he perceived, at a window or in the crowd, his old love, Mary Cary. He raised his sword and saluted her profoundly. She fainted.

Humors of the Draft.—The draft which is going forward at Chicago, produces such scenes at the enrolment as are described as follows:

"My dear sir," said a drafted person to the chief of the board, "I have received notice that I am drafted."

"Yes, you were drawn yesterday; you will be quartered at the barracks to-morrow."

"Drawn and quartered! good heavens!" The poor fellow slid out of the room like a greased eel. He has not been seen nor heard of since. His name was Smyth before he was drafted, but now it is myth; at least he is.

A stout gentlemen was drafted in one of our wards who had previously stood a draft in Madison, Wisconsin. He stoutly denied that the authorities had any right to draft him here:

"Why are you exempt?" inquired the Provost Marshal. "Can you get a certificate from a man of medicine?"

"No, but I can get one from the men of Madison."

The pun was pronounced good, and the man ordered punished. He was compelled to submit to a second draft.

Mr. Bramah made his appearance to claim exemption. His friends rallied him on his name, and asked if he was chicken-hearted.

"No, I'm a game cock," said he, "but I don't like the draft."

"Then said a particular friend of his, "if you are that kind of chicken, prepare for the next world, and die bravely."

"What care I for the next world?" was the reckless response, "chickens get their necks twirled in this."

But the majority do not prove ready at retort. Stout men suffer; sick men rejoice. One-eyed individuals, men with one leg, and legs without any man at all; men who are liverless, lungless and heartless, laugh incessantly at comicalities of the draft. Other men can't see it. They like the draft, but they don't like being drafted. Circumstances alter cases, or, as the attorney said, cases alter circumstances. Every man is patriotic. There is not an individual in all this broad and happy land that would object to seeing his best friend drafted and sacrificed upon the altar of his country; any one will cheerfully see his wife's brother or his aunt's uncle, or any other distant relative swallowed up by the draft, but at the same time he believes, and not without example either, that patriotism, unlike charity, should never begin at home.

John Fitch Wanted Four Hundred Dollars.—Westcott, in his "Life of John Fitch," relates the following incident: It occurred during a visit of Mr. Fitch to Mr. Brown:

"He stated that he had built a vessel or vessels to give practical proof to the world of the value of his invention; that the machinery of his boat or boats required some change or amendment to satisfy the world that steamboats could and would navigate our rivers against their currents. Thus his discovery would be of peculiar and immense advantage to Mr. Brown's district of Kentucky. He (Fitch) was without means or resources, and wanted about four hundred dollars, and had called upon Mr. Brown, as a Member of Congress from Kentucky, to advance him that sum. Mr. Brown replied that it was not convenient—that he had not the money to spare him. Mr. Fitch, rising from his seat, said to Mr. Brown, 'Well, sir, if you will not advance me the money, I will go to the Secretary of State's office, and cause it to be entered, that it remain res perpetua memoria, that I, John Fitch, inventor of steamboats, having exhausted all my means in carrying my invention into perfection, needed four hundred dollars to complete my work, and give evidence to the world of its value and utility; that I called upon you, John Brown, Member of Congress from the Kentucky District, in the State of Virginia, to loan me four hundred dollars to complete my machinery and give unanswerable evidence of the utility and importance of my invention, and that you refused it.' Mr. Brown said, 'You may do so, Mr. Fitch, if you please.' Fitch then said, 'Good morning, Mr. Brown, Member of Congress from the Kentucky District,' and Mr. Brown replied 'Good morning, Mr. Fitch, inventor of steamboats.' Mr. Brown never saw Mr. Fitch again."

A lady correspondent, who assumes to know how boys ought to be trained, writes to an exchange as follows: "Oh, mothers! hunt out the soft, tender, genial side of your boy's nature." Mothers often do—with an old shoe—to the boy's benefit.

"See here, my friend, you are drunk." "Drunk, to be sure I am, and have been for the last three years. You see my brother and I are on the temperance mission. He lectures, while I set a frightful example."

From the army hospital—the bloody battle-field—the mansion of the rich, and humble abode of the poor—from the office and the secluded desk—from the mountain-top, distant valleys, and far-off islands of the ocean—from every nook and corner of the civilized world—is pouring in the evidence of the astonishing effects of DRAKE'S PLANTATION BITTERS. Thousands and thousands of letters like the following may be seen at our office:

Barnsburg, Mass., Sept. 16, 1864.
"* * * I have been in the army hospitals for fourteen months—speechless and nearly dead. At Alton, Ill., they gave me a bottle of Plantation Bitters. * * * Three bottles restored my speech and cured me. * * *
C. A. FLAUTE."

South Warsaw, O., July 28, 1863.
"* * * One young man, who had been sick and not out of the house for two years with Scrofula and Erysipelas, after paying the doctors over $250 without benefit, has been cured by ten bottles of your Bitters.
EDWARD WORNALL."

The following is from the manager of the Union Home School for the Children of Volunteers:
Havemeyer Mansion, Fifty-Seventh St.,
New York, August 1, 1863.
"Dr. Drake: Your wonderful Plantation Bitters have been given to some of our little children suffering from weakness and weak lungs, with most happy effect. One little girl, in particular, with pains in her head, loss of appetite, and daily wasting consumption, on whom all medical skill had been exhausted, has been entirely restored. We commenced with but a teaspoonful of Bitters a day. Her appetite and strength rapidly increased, and she is now well. * * * Respectfully,
Mrs. O. M. DEVOE."

"* * * I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.
Rev. W. H. WAGGONER, Madrid, N. Y."

"* * * Thou wilt send me two bottles more of thy Plantation Bitters. My wife has been greatly benefitted by their use. Thy friend, ASA CURRIN, Philadelphia, Pa."

"* * * I have been a great sufferer from dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. * * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me.
Rev. J. S. CATHORN, Rochester, N. Y."

"* * * Send us twenty-four dozen more of your Plantation Bitters, the popularity of which is daily increasing with the guests of our house.
SYKES, CHADWICK & CO.,
Proprietors Willard's Hotel, Washington, D. C."

"* * * I have given the Plantation Bitters to hundreds of our disabled soldiers with the most astonishing effect.
G. W. ANDREWS,
Superintendent Soldiers Home, Cincinnati, O."

"* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of liver complaint, of which I was laid up prostrate and had to abandon my business.
H. B. KINGSLEY, Cleveland, O."

"* * * The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the Kidneys and urinary organs that has distressed me for years. It acts like a charm.
C. C. MOORE, 254 Broadway, N. Y."

etc. etc. etc. etc. etc.

The Plantation Bitters make the weak strong, the languid brilliant, and are exhausted nature's great restorer. They are composed of the celebrated Calisaya Bark, Wintergreen, Sassafras, Roots, Herbs, &c., all preserved in perfectly pure St. Croix Rum.

S. T.—1860.—X.

Persons of sedentary habits troubled with weakness, lassitude, palpitation of the heart, lack of appetite, distress after eating, torpid liver, constipation, &c., deserve to suffer if they will not try them.

They are recommended by the highest medical authorities, and are warranted to produce an immediate beneficial effect. They are exceedingly agreeable, perfectly pure and harmless.

Notice.—Any person pretending to sell Plantation Bitters in bulk or by the gallon, is a swindler and impostor. It is put up only in our patent log cabin bottle. THE ASTONISHING SUCCESS WHICH HAS ATtended this invaluable medicine renders it the most valuable one ever discovered. It is well known that the Medicinal effects of Protoxide of Iron is lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further oxidation, has been deemed impossible.

IODINE WATER.

IODINE WATER IS THE MOST IMPORTANT DIScovery of modern chemistry, and it is impossible to over-estimate its influence as a remedial agent. Iodine has been considered the most useful article in Materia Medica, and many of the most scientific and practical chemists and physicians have investigated its effects upon the human system. It acts upon the

HEART,
LIVER, KIDNEYS,
DIGESTIVE ORGANS and GLANDULAR
SYSTEM,

and to have great control over

SCROFULOUS AFFECTIONS.

Notwithstanding the zeal and ability which have been devoted to its investigation, it remained almost useless, untill Dr. Henry Anders, a physician and chemist of New York, after years of patient labor and experiment, discovered a chemical process which enabled him to dissolve

PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER;

without a solvent. This, considered impossible by the scientific world, is attested by certificates of analysis from Dr. J. R. Chilton of this city, and Prof. Booth, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. The importance of this discovery was so highly appreciated by the Faculty that it was published in the Medical Journals, and is used recommended to practitioners (see "American Medical Monthly," July 6, 1856, page 16.)

This valuable medicine is now available to the public for the cure of Scrofula in all its manifold forms, Consumption, Cancer, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Dyspepsia, Bronchitis, etc.

AS A TONIC

Its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.
Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
